

Mockup from Assignment 5

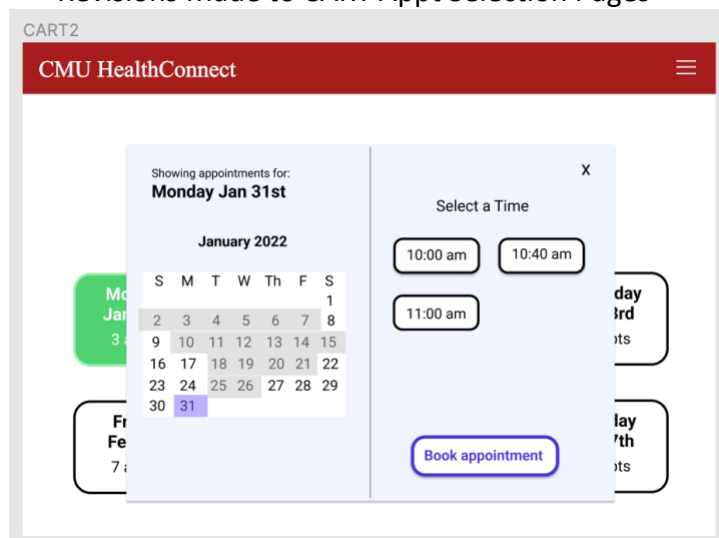

- CART Appointment Selection Pages

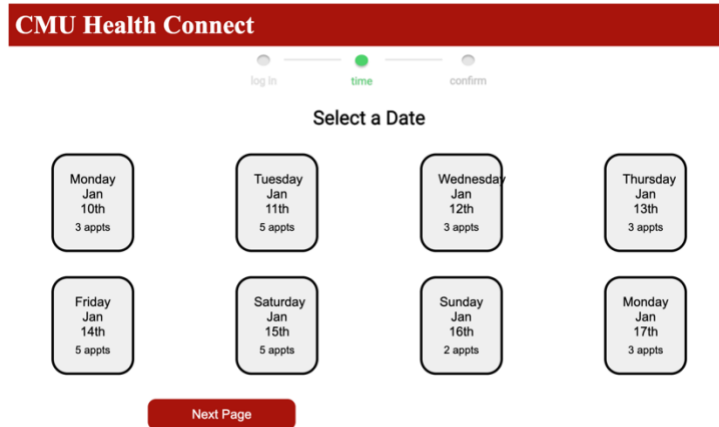

- DETAIL Specific Appt

- Revisions Made to CART Appt Selection Pages

The pop up screen view was updated. The calendar view is designed for the user to better interact with the calendar to easily view the available appointment times for different days without having to exit the popup screen and choose a new date. This addresses flexibility and efficiency heuristic. The greyed out dates and the purple color for the current selected date addresses minimalism and aesthetic design.

In the design for assignment 5, clicking the book appointment button immediately takes the user to the confirm page.

For this deliverable though, the functionality was updated to close the pop up screen when the book appointment button is clicked.

This way, the user has the option to add a new appointment to the cart. Next page button takes the user to the confirm page.
